To the Voters of the 4th Congressional District.

At the earnest solicitation of many citizens, I have consented that my name should be presented to you as a candidate for Congress at the next approaching election. As it has never been my habit to electioneer, or to make stump speeches, unless some political question was presented to the people, requiring discussion, and as the time is very brief before the election takes place, and the conduct of the colored people is so uncertain and unsatisfactory as to require every man to be at home, I cannot and do not intend to canvass the District. If elected I will serve you to the best of my ability, but to obtain that honorable post by stump speaking or electioneering in any manner or form is what I will not do. It is well known to many of you, that I was the only man in the State who canvassed and carried his District against Secession and the call of a Convention, and in the General Assembly of your State was the only member in either House who voted against the call of a Convention, believing that if a Convention was ordered, secession would be certain to follow. I told the people I then represented, that if a physical conflict should take place between the North and South, that it would certainly end in the abolition of slavery.

These were my convictions then fully and frequently expressed. Secession did take place, and that dreadful conflict, so apprehended by me, followed. In this contest so fatal to us, I exerted all my power and all my means to make the cause of the South triumphant. We were overpowered by overwhelming numbers, and such calamities as never befell any other people in modern times have befallen us. And the question may now be asked, is there any hope or salvation for us? If there is, it must be effected by our own good works. President Johnson is anxious to restore us to the Union and recognize our Constitutional rights; and we should therefore give him our hearty support. But with an overwhelming majority in both Houses against us, I am of opinion that his power and means are very limited to help us. In this state of things we must work out our own salvation. And this we can only do by changing, in a great measure, our industrial pursuits. We must spin and weave the cotton which we grow. We must tan the leather which we wear. And whatever can be made by human industry, with a due regard to economy, must be produced at home. We must invest our capital in such a variety of pursuits as to give employment to all our people and banish idleness from our land.

We have great resources, both mineral and agricultural, and a climate far superior to any other section of the Union. All that is wanting is intelligent and diversified industry and economy to make us yet a great people.

I presume most of you are aware that the late Federal Congress passed a law requiring all persons holding any office of honor or trust under the Federal Congress, to take oath that he has in no wise aided or abetted the late rebellion, and this may preclude you from having any representation in the Federal Congress. It seems to me, however, that much will depend upon the men whom the South may choose to represent them. If men, notorious for their secession proclivities and instigating the people to the adoption of that fatal measure, should be chosen, such men will not be so apt to be received as if moderate men were elected, and especially those who were openly active against Secession.

I may see some of you between this and the time of election, which is not yet ordered, but it is very uncertain. I only say, in conclusion, that I hope that you will so cast your vote so as to elect the man who can best subserve the interest of your country.
